Who is "Miss" Leone A. Dutton?

Mr. Will Hathorn, of Loveland, was a visitor at Mrs. Mahan's the past week.

Mrs. Harry W. Spargur will entertain the Amusement club next Friday evening.

Mrs. Herbert Nelson has been quite sick for the past week with some kind of fever.

Mrs. Geo. Fuller left Wednesday for a month's visit to friends in Indiana and Illinois.

Messrs. Newby & Morrow are absent in Little Rock, Ark., on legal business this week.

The many friends of Mr. Dick Baldwin will be glad to know he is again visiting in Hillsboro.

Mr. Fred Fenner, of Los Angeles, California, is visiting his mother at the present time.

Mr. R. S. Quinn, of Washington C. H., made a visit to friends in this place the first of this week.

Miss Jennie Crothers, of Flagstaff, Arizona, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Patton, of this place.

Miss Nellie Hawthorne, of Loveland, was the guest of her friend, Miss Hattie Mahan, part of last week.

Mrs. Henry Baldwin, of Springfield, is visiting her brother, Mayor Dawson, and her sister, Mrs. A. K. Johnson.

Miss Jennie Wiggins had as her guests last week Miss Lillian Friend, of Blanche, and Miss Anna Lyons, of Buford.

Mr. Burch Foraker, who has been attending school at Delaware, returned to this place Monday to spend his vacation.

Mrs. H. C. Gravelly, of Leatherwood, Virginia, and Miss Kate Thomas, of Martinsville, Virginia, are the guests of Mrs. James W. Smith, of North High street.

Confirmation at St. Mary's Catholic Church this (Wednesday) evening at half-past seven o'clock. There are about seventy-five who are to be received into full membership.

Hon. W. M. McWilliams, brother of Mrs. Col. Walker, of Huntington, Pennsylvania, was the guest of his sister the past week. Mr. McWilliams is State Senator from his district.

Miss Lizzie Brooksbank left last Wednesday for Waukegan, Indiana, where she expects to make her future home. She was accompanied to Cincinnati by her aunt, Miss Nellie Simpson.

A Hillsboro lady was heard to remark that "she had an abundance of bad luck." She had just lost her pocket-book containing a key and a knitting needle or some other kind of needle. It was not a hair pin, sure.

The boys—Hillsboro boys we mean—will be cautious about sitting down heavily on the iron railing in front of T. A. Walker & Co.'s windows. The reason this does not apply to country boys is that they know a barb wire fence when they see it.

Edward Boatman obtained his liberty and also a wife last Tuesday. Mr. Boatman was released from his cell in the jail where he had been placed on a charge of bastardy by Miss Naomi Marlett, who is now Mrs. Boatman, and the marriage bells are still ready to chime for the next.

Messrs. Albert Matthews and Edward Campbell were the delegates from the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian Church to the National Convention of the C. E. S., which assembled in St. Louis last week. We learn from the daily press that the convention was very large and enthusiastic.

Mr. Fenton Gall, who has been virtually in charge of the Hillsboro College for the last year, has again been chosen by the Board of Trustees as the most available man to have control of that institution. Mr. Gall's ability as an educator is well known throughout this and adjoining counties. He was quite successful in his management of the Normal school at North Liberty, and also here the past season. We are not yet aware of just how the course of study will be arranged for the coming year, but Fenton will make it go.

The encampment of the S. of V.'s at Mansfield is reported as being a royal gathering, the grandest that has yet been held. Two hundred were present who were entitled to vote. As was mentioned in last week's issue those in attendance from Hillsboro were D. Q. Morrow, H. D. Davis, Con Donor and J. W. Fenner, the latter now being Captain of the camp at this place. Mr. D. Q. Morrow, as will be seen in another article, was defeated for Colonel by one vote. But the Hillsboro boys were not forgotten. Mr. Morrow and Mr. Davis being selected as delegates to the National Encampment, which meets in St. Louis.

Mr. Charleston Telfair and family are to become citizens of Hillsboro this week.

Miss Maggie Patterson left last Monday for an extended trip to points in Indiana and Illinois.

Miss Mae Cummings and her mother were visiting in Cincinnati the forepart of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Doc. Hilton, accompanied by four of their children, are visiting relatives in Kentucky.

Mrs. "Will" L. Reed, of Portsmouth, is paying a visit to her parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Hiestand.

Miss Hallie Fenner, of Xenia, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Collier Fenner, of Walnut street.

Mr. Sam Cummings, who has been attending school at Oxford, returned last Thursday for his vacation.

Mr. Wm. (better known as "Bill") Heddleson, of Lincoln, Neb., is visiting his former acquaintances in the Model Town.

Dr. McSurely left last Tuesday morning for the commencement exercises at Miami University, which are being held this week. Dr. McSurely is a trustee of that institution.

A number of the families on West Walnut street invested in Boston steam dried corn a week or so ago. On close examination it looks very much like lye hominy. But the undecided question is how did it taste?

Great preparations are being made for the Fourth of July at Buford, this county. No organization is better qualified than is the G. A. R. to make this national holiday a day of rejoicing as well as of instruction. The crowd will go to Buford and honor the old veterans and celebrate the Fourth.

Among the names of persons which were injured in a railroad wreck on the Danville Railroad near Ashville, N. C., appears that of Mrs. J. C. VanBuhlow, who will be remembered as a former Hillsboro young lady, Miss Josie Cole. The report says that Mrs. VanBuhlow was seriously injured.

The twelfth annual camp meeting of the A. M. E. Church will be held on the Fair Grounds, commencing July 3d and closing on the evening of the 14th. Good music, good speakers and a good time is promised. Every body come. The bids for stands for the sale of refreshments will be held open until the 25th of June. For particulars inquire of the pastor, Rev. B. M. Carson.

The old saying, that "It is an ill wind that blows nobody good," was verified in Hillsboro on Wednesday afternoon of last week. While the fierce wind on that afternoon destroyed some shade and ornamental trees in the village, it also took control of the old porch on the Bell building. The structure had served its day of usefulness and the wind knew it and put it in a shape in which it can be utilized as fuel. When the weather turns cold it will be so used if it is not removed before cold weather comes.

Now that a substantial pavement has been constructed across the Court House yard for convenience in reaching the post-office, it will be necessary to vacate a small strip of the feed lot and wagon yard on Court street. Well, say a strip about eighteen inches wide. It is very unpleasant for Hillsboro ladies on their way to the post-office to have to punch the track clear of mules with their umbrellas or to be compelled to climb over the interlaced tongues of farm wagons. We move that Marshal Lewis see to it that a small section of the above-named street be donated to lady foot passengers.

The marriage of Col. David Cook, of Samantha, to Miss Rachel Smith, at the Infirmary last Thursday, might be called a brief affair, in that the ceremony performed by Rev. J. I. Taggart, of Rainsboro, was short, sharp, and to the point. The stay of Mr. Cook with the audience after he knew that Rachel was all his, was about as brief as the nature of the case would admit. He made a bee line to the dining room with his Rachel, leaving the balance of those present to their own meditations. But all guests, numbering about fifty, were cordially received and sumptuously fed by Superintendent Evans and his estimable lady. This institution could not be in better hands as to Directors and Superintendent than it is at present.

The Woman's Relief Corps wish to express their thanks to all who aided them in their strawberry festival, and especially to the Hillsboro Band, which entertained the audience in a most delightful manner, offering their services gratuitously. Special thanks are also given to Masters Maurice Hoyt and Frank Ellifritz for their efficient and generous help during the evening. The next regular meeting of the Corps will be held in their new quarters (the Y's room), over Emma Cox & Sister's millinery store, in the Masonic Building, on next Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Special business is to be transacted, so it is urged that all members be present, and come prepared to pay their quarterly dues to the Treasurer.

By order Corps President.

UNION SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

"Again the Silent Wheels of Time Their Annual Rounds Have Driven."

Time, the non-respecter of men or things, has again announced that twelve months have expired since the last commencement in Hillsboro, and that at least a half dozen of young people must get out of the way, saying, "Move on, move on, you can't be students longer here. I am here to remind you that the platform must be cleared for other forms and faces who desire to enter the wider school of life." The young people who bowed to the demands of Father Time and a pleased audience last Friday evening in Army Hall were Misses Feekin Walker, Hattie Mahan, Elva Foreman and Katie Lemon, with Messrs. Julius Feibel and Fred Gamble.

The platform was tastefully decorated with flowers and drapery, but the most interesting and attractive contingent that appeared on the stage were the bright and hopeful faces of the graduating class named above.

The introduction of the exercises of the evening was an overture by the orchestra, which was largely composed of home talent, Mr. Frye, the well known violinist, of Chillicothe, being the only foreign artist who took part. The music furnished by the orchestra, as well as the songs sung by the pupils of the school, was well received. Miss Anna Hoyt presided at the piano in a very satisfactory manner.

The first of the graduates who stepped before the audience was Miss Feekin Walker with "The Chemistry of Society" as her theme. Miss Walker's introduction related to the science of chemistry and its laws of affinity, gracefully gliding from the science proper to its application to the human family, closing with the practical application if any compound is to be valuable each ingredient must be good, pure and true.

The next Miss who entertained the audience was Miss Kate A. Lemon with a "Plea for Old Shoes." Miss Katie, after portraying the exquisite pleasure of breaking in a new pair of shoes, drew the conclusion that old shoes, like the old wine mentioned in Scripture, was much to be preferred after trying the new. There was in this close of the oration a touching of the sensibilities and tender feeling of those who had treasured up mouldy shoes that had formerly encased tiny feet in saying that the value of such old shoes was not to be measured by dollars and cents.

"Man and His Home" was next portrayed by Miss Elva J. Foreman. This subject was handled with a degree of directness and pathos from first to last. While much that was offered by Miss Foreman might be called commonplace and familiar, yet there was the intermingling of those things which constitute real life that gave true life to the thoughts expressed and touched a responsive chord in those who were listeners.

Fred K. Gamble next appeared behind the footlights. He laid safety bicycles and tricycles away in the garret for mice and moths to consume, figuratively speaking, in his vivid description of the automatic motor that was to accomplish everything from displacing the railroad train as a means of conveyance to taking the place of the nurse girl who does duty by washing the baby's face. His subject was, "Would Perpetual Motion be Desirable?" and in discussing that subject he, no doubt, succeeded in convincing himself, as well as many of the audience, that if perpetual motion was even attainable through his automatic motor with extra pulleys and belts, that modern perpetual motion is not the greatest desideratum of the nineteenth century.

Would Perpetual Motion be Desirable? was followed by the subject "Prison Literature," delivered by Miss Hattie Mahan. The way in which Miss Mahan handled her subject showed that the reading of different authors by this speaker had not been of cursory nature, but of a kind which had gleaned the fruit in such a way as to present it in an interesting way to those who constituted an audience.

A number of eminent writers with the profitable thoughts recorded by them while within prison walls were referred to, closing with a glowing tribute to John Buynan in Bedford jail, and St. Paul, a prisoner in Rome.

The last oration of the evening was by Julius C. Feibel, the valedictorian of the class. Julius had chosen as the theme of his oration "Dangers of Free Governments," and that the subject had not been alighted was evidenced by the manner in which history was brought in to prove the positions taken. At first the attention of the audience was directed to some of the palpable dangers of the present day, but as the subject was further investigated the history of nations, with their rise and fall, were forcibly presented to the attentive listener. This subject was forcibly handled by Mr. Feibel, in fact this may truly be said of all who spoke, that each graduate acquitted him or herself creditably but a just and deserved tribute to those who received diplomas last Friday evening.

We have studiously avoided saying one word in reference to the manner in which the young ladies were attired, for if any description of dress is given it is always the ladies' dresses that receive notice. Let it suffice for those who were Interested, and also for those who were not interested, to know that the young lady members of the eighteenth class of graduates were neatly, tastefully and modestly arrayed, while the boys were dressed just as boys should be dressed. The exercises of last Friday evening were not intended to exhibit adornments of the body, but the richer adornments of the mind. The whole of the exercises of the evening were impressive as well as interesting. The adornments of the platform have already been referred to, but the fact that the members of the School Board occupied seats on the stage was not mentioned. With them were seated Rev. James Murray, pastor of the M. E. Church, and R. W. King, pastor of the Baptist Church, who opened and closed the exercises respectively by prayer and the benediction. The teachers of the high school, Messrs. Smith and Truesdale, also occupied seats on the platform with Superintendent Major, who, in a few earnest remarks, addressed the class and presented the diplomas. There might be said to be a touch of sadness conveyed to those who for the last time stood before their teachers as pupils—pupils no longer, but through the exercise and their closing work on Friday evening were ushered into the larger school of the world to make their mark there.

Mrs. Harriet Elliott is in Columbus visiting her daughters, Mesdames Frank Waddell and Green Shaw.

Mr. Elgar Barrere has accepted a position as salesman in a hardware store at Circleville, and leaves Thursday for that place. Health and success to you, Elgar.

Mrs. Rev. R. W. King, accompanied by her sister, Miss Jennie McDowell, who has been attending school the past year, left for Castown, the home of the latter, on Wednesday of this week.

On account of failing health Mr. W. J. Morgan has been compelled to sell his stock of groceries, Messrs. Chas. Scott and Chas. Lemon being the purchasers. For the purpose of settlement Mr. Morgan will be found at the old stand until further notice is given.

Mr. W. J. Truesdale has resigned his position as one of the high school teachers in this place. Our personal acquaintance with Mr. Truesdale has been but limited, yet sufficient to be able to pronounce him a perfect gentleman. His stay in Hillsboro has been a brief one, only a year, yet Hillsboro recognized the ability and value of the man by offering a largely increased salary for his services. Report says he goes to Cleveland, O., at a salary of $1,200 for the first year with the promise of an increase of $300 each year for the two following years. While we congratulate Mr. Truesdale on his success, we are but expressing the true feeling of a number of our best citizens when we say that Hillsboro realizes that in his departure she has lost a first-class educator and a Christian gentleman, one who has made his influence felt in the short time he has been with us. But the assertion needs no proof that Mr. Truesdale will make a valuable citizen wherever he may go. The NEWS-HERALD wishes prosperity to the young couple who came amongst us as strangers so short a time ago, and who now leave us as respected friends and fellow citizens.

At Rest.

On Monday morning, June 24, 1890, death broke the family circle of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hart by taking away from them their oldest daughter, Otis, who died of consumption, after long suffering, at the residence of her grand-mother, Mrs. David Lowman. Her remains were interred Tuesday, at Dunn's Chapel, Rev. Maxey officiating. Otis was aged 15 years, 1 month and 1 day, and was thus called from earthly scenes in the early bloom of womanhood when prospects were bright before her. Otis had united with the M. E. Church in 1888, and had lived a fit example for her friends and associates. Dutiful and industrious at school, cheerful and helpful at home, she was the pride of the household, and her place at home and at school will be sadly vacant. The family have the deepest sympathy of the community in this their first affliction.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

A FRIEND.

Made a Brilliant Fight.

Mr. D. Q. Morrow, of this city, was defeated at Mansfield last week for commander of the Sons of Veterans of the Ohio Division, after a hard fight, by one vote. The fight was between Northern and Southern Ohio, and the North having the most camps, with the encampment on their own ground, had all the chances. But with it all the Hillsboro candidate nearly succeeded and was finally elected by acclamation from twenty-five candidates as a delegate to the National Encampment to be held in St. Joseph, Mo., in August. We clip the following from the Enquirer, whose reporter was on the ground:

The principal event of the day was the election this afternoon for Colonel, which occupied four hours, and was very hotly contested. Hon. D. Q. Morrow, of Hillsboro; Lieutenant-Colonel Charles Deckman, of Malvern, and D. V. Hilliard, Recorder of Licking County, were the candidates. Morrow was nominated by the silver-tongued young attorney of Hillsboro, H. D. Davis; Deckman, by Department State Auditor, J. H. Gilkey, of Columbus, and Hilliard by Prosecuting Attorney McElroy, of Mt. Vernon. Although Morrow was laboring under the disadvantage of being from Southern Ohio, and his candidate, while Deckman was on his own ground, it looked all week that Morrow's hustling friends would succeed. The fight soon located itself between Morrow and Deckman, and, after a hot struggle, resulted in Deckman's favor by 1 vote in nearly 400 cast. Morrow accepted the situation gracefully and moved that it be made unanimous, which was seconded by Hilliard. Colonel Bundy then appointed the two gentlemen to escort Colonel Deckman to the stage. After a few remarks, as Colonel Deckman is not much given to speech-making, J. V. Hilliard was introduced and made a happy speech. Morrow was then called forward from all over the house, and made the speech of the day, in which he pledged himself to the aid of the Administration for the coming year. He will speak at the camp fire at Memorial Hall this evening, as will Colonel W. E. Bundy, Mr. J. V. Hilliard and others. Morrow's hustling qualities and phenomenal strong fight has made him the favorite of the city, and no member of the order is more popular to-night. He is considered the coming man of the order.

Mr. R. P. Roush, agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Co., has his office in Mr. Oonk's tailor shop. Mr. Roush is a new man in our midst, but he thoroughly understands his business, and should receive a liberal share of the public patronage.

Notice.

The annual district meeting of the W. F. M. S. of Hillsboro district will be held in the M. E. Church at Leesburg June 26. An interesting and varied programme will be rendered. Delegates from different auxiliary societies will be present and contribute to the interest of the meeting by essays, recitations, select music, &c. The ladies of the Leesburg auxiliary most cordially invite all who are interested in the spread of the Gospel to attend this meeting. Visiting friends and delegates will be entertained. Interesting Closing Exercises Last Week at Martin College.

PULASKI, June 7.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of Martin Female College took place this week. Tuesday evening a delightful concert was given by the "Jenny Lind and Clara Schumann Clubs." The pupils of Miss Annie Wendel, from the College of Music, Cincinnati, displayed a daintiness and breadth of execution which characterizes that institution. Wednesday evening, devoted to the contestants for music and elocutionary medals, was perhaps the most interesting of all. The contestants all did well. Miss Connie Nelson, of Memphis, received the elocutionary medal. Little Miss Helen Saunders, 11 years old, received the music medal. The pupils of Mrs. Grace Gardner Sloane displayed, with admirable success, their careful work in "tone building" done this year. Mrs. Sloane is a pupil of the distinguished B. W. Foley, of the College of Music of Cincinnati. Thursday evening the graduates, nine in number, were addressed by Bishop Fitzgerald in a most graceful and appropriate manner, followed by the conferring of diplomas and benediction.—Nashville Daily American.

What Time Is It?

A number of our citizens don't seem to be satisfied with the hour of day as indicated by the town clock. As expressions are offered in this office we are led to believe that if the sentiment of quite a number of citizens can be crystallized the Council may have an opportunity to reconsider their action in superceding the sun.
